

Annex to Software License and Services Agreement: community licenses

For community licenses, the Software License and Services Agreement will apply, with the additional terms listed below. For capitalised terms not defined here, please see the Software License and Services Agreement. In case of any contradiction between the terms of the Software License and Services Agreement and the terms below, the terms below will prevail.

1. The licensee (also called “Company”) may qualify for a community license. Community licenses are the same as set out in the Software License and Services Agreement, except that the Software may be used for test, research and education purposes only. Commercial use is not allowed under a community license.
2. Community licenses are restricted to educational institutions and their students and personnel. Scandit may request that a valid email address issued by an educational institution be used to sign up for the community license, and that the Company provides proof of enrollment at or employment by an educational institution.
3. The Company agrees that Scandit may take technical measures to ensure compliance with the Agreement and may request Company to provide proof of compliance with the Agreement.
4. Community licenses begin upon Scandit issuing a community license key and will run for 12 months. The license will renew automatically for 12 months on a rolling basis. Either party can immediately end the Agreement upon notice to the other party, for any reason.
5. Under community licenses the software is provided “as-is” without warranty of any kind and without support. Scandit’s indemnification obligations and support obligations do not apply and to the fullest extent not prohibited by law, Scandit will have no liability for the software or losses related to the Software or its use.
